

ABSOLUTELY, IN NO WAY SHOULD YOU ALLOW COPY PROTECTION BITS ON BROADCAST TV OR OTHER TV PROVIDER SETUPS.

I'm serious about this.

We've seen how the media companies will abuse copy "protection".

We know perfectly well that their method of using any copy "protection" bit would have an underlying goal of denying Americans their legal right to time-shift and archive for personal viewing broadcast TV programs.

Don't let them get away with it. Keep any and all copy protection bits OUT of the HDTV specification.
